Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's amendment and remarks of April 11, 2005 are acknowledged and entered and have been fully considered.

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Stockel. For this action, please refer to the marked up copy of Figure I of Stockel disclosed herein. Stockel shows a receptacle for a nozzle of a coupling device, the receptacle including a valve body including an internal valve 20, and a collar radially outwardly disposed from the valve body and defining therewith an annular cavity to receive a collar of the nozzle; the collar of the receptacle including a series of bearings 30 spaced along an interior surface of the collar which can be received in helical channels of the nozzle to secure the nozzle to the receptacle when the receptacle is rotated in one direction with respect to the nozzle. The bearings 30 secures the nozzle to the receptacle by preventing the receptacle from moving axially away from the nozzle coupling device because the bearings are locked onto the drive shaft 20 when the receptacle is rotated with respect to the nozzle in assembling the device.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1-14 are allowed.

Art Unit: 3752

5. Claims 16-20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed April 11, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The valve body of Stockel comprises a valve plate 20 connected to a drive shaft 20a in which the combination of the plate 20 and the shaft 20a forms a poppet valve. Also, the bearings of Stockel, as view from Figure 1 are spaced in discrete circumferential increments as recited since Figure 1 shows a side cross sectional view of the device. Applicant has recited "which can be received in helical channels of the nozzle" in which the phrase "can be" is not a positive recitation. Thus due to the orientation of the bearings 30 as seen in Figure 1, the series of bearings spaced in discrete circumferential increments around an interior surface of the collar also "can be" received in helical channels.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 3752
